The ECOSTILER project is a project under the CONCERTO Programme.

The ECOSTILER partners have worked to install and retrofit a range of low carbon technologies and energy efficiency improvements in urban and rural dwellings. These have included biogas plants, district heating, photo-voltaics panels, and wind turbines.

This process has presented many political, socio-economic and technical challenges which have each been addressed in the most suitable way for each community.

This experience and solutions it generated will be presented and discussed at this Building Greener Communities conference.

We invite all CONCERTO projects and their associate communities as well as other interested parties e.g. in the region and abroad as real estate developers, climate alliance partners, inhabitants, housing cooperations, energy centers, etc. to take part in this conference!
